

CHESTERS WALLED GARDEN

Chesters Walled Garden has a very special atmosphere. Set in the wild landscape of Hadrian's Wall, it is a haven of peace and beauty. The relaxed style of gardening gives a freedom to the planting that is exuberant and informal. Seen often on television and in books, it is a garden that many people love for its colour & scents.

With one of the largest collections of herbs in Britain, Chesters Walled Garden is home to the National Collections of Thyme and Marjoram. There are medicinal and dye plants, culinary and aromatic herbs, knot gardens and blowsy old fashioned roses. The famous Thyme Bank is a Persian carpet of colour in summer whilst the Roman Herb Garden shows the herbs grown during the Roman occupation.

The flower-filled borders last well into autumn with grasses, seed heads and rosehips. Run organically, the garden attracts a great diversity of wildlife and red squirrels can be seen in the surrounding woodland.

We have a specialist nursery selling a wide range of herbs & unusual herbaceous plants as well as wildflowers and old-fashioned roses from David Austin. Many of the plants for sale can be seen growing in Chesters Walled Garden.

The Old Potting Shed Shop has a tempting selection of jams & honey, cards by local artists, organic vegetable seeds, terracotta pots & gifts for gardeners plus ice creams & fruit drinks for hot days.

Interesting & informative garden tours and talks can be given to groups by prior arrangement.
